"These are the times to remember because they will not last forever . . . these are the days to hold on to."
—Billy Joel

These words express the memories we hold of our four years as FHS. Although high school is over, we will remember the times we have had and the friends we have made. These friends have helped us make it through the past years. These years signify friedship, caring, security, insecurity, need, wisdom, laughing, crying, fun, sadness, joy, pain . . . and love.

From the moment we arrived as freshmen our class has carried the stigma of disunity. However, we have proven this incorrect. Diverse factions working for common goals, we drew together. The class displayed this for the Junior Work Weekend and our success turned into vigorous energy in presenting a fantastic Prom. Not yet satisfied with out achievements, we continued to set a new record with Christmas Tree Sales and exposed our talent and humor in the Senior Class Play. As we leave Falmouth High behind we have left a mark of pride and accomplishment.

The future is exciting, challenging, and desired by each one of us. However, we can not forget our past because "these are the best times to remember." We can grow because we have learned academically, socially, and emotionally. We can take our high school experience with us to initiate new bonds, new friendships, and a new life while holding on to these days we have spent together. Good Luck and Best Wishes for the future.

Sincerely, the 1987 Senior Class Officers:

As Mick Jagger put it, "It's only rock and roll," and now a study of the impact of rock lyrics on teens has reached the same conclusion. Sociologist Lorraine Prinsky and assistant professor of criminology Jill Rosenbaum of California State University at Fullerton surveyed 266 junior high and high-school students with a 40-page questionaire. In one part, the kids were asked to name their three favorite songs and describe what they were about. Of 622 songs cited, only 7 percent were percieved to be about sex, violence, drugs, or satanism. Twenty-six percent were said to be about love. And the students couldn't even say what 37 percent of the songs were about-they just liked them because of the melody or the beat. "One of the conclusions we came to is that parents are hearing more sophisticated themes in songs than their children are capable of understanding," said Prinsky.

The Parents Music Resource Center, which spurred Capitol Hill hearings last September on the issue of obscene rock lyrics, is still waiting to see the study. But Tipper Gore, wife of Senator Albert Gore and founder of the PMRC, was skeptical. "If they hear a song on the radio 12 or 26 times," she said, "it doesn't make common sense to me that they have no idea what the song is saying." Prinsky, however, maintains that the study shows that "as far as brainwashing kids for corrupting them, music is a minor factor, if any."- Newsweek.

For over seven years our society has been faced with a major epidemic. The Aquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, or AIDS,- named for the progressive loss of immune function in its victims- has sickened or killed thousands of people in the United State.

In a world where the great medical advances in medical science and technology, over the past few decades, have made physicians confident that the infectious diseases of mankind were both curable and largely under control, AIDS is causing the panic and confusion that we associate with days gone by.

The AIDS disease slowly takes over the bodies' immune system, eventually leaving its victim with no defense against even the common cold. The cause of this disfunction is still unknown.

From the recent collected data, the virus appears to directly attack the immune cells, and is transmitted by blood, secretions, and sexual contact.

The group most severely affected by the disease is male homosexuals. For these men, along with the fear of the disease itself, is the knowledge that their lifestyle is or could become the cause of their death. Although the impact of this fact has caused some homosexual men to re-evaluate and change their social and sexual behavior, others find such modification difficult if not impossible.

The tragedy of AIDS extends beyond its original victims. The epidemic has aroused legitimate concern for their own safety among health-care personnel who work daily with the blood and secretions of AIDS patients; and to the boyfriends, girlfriends, husbands, wives, and children of people who come in contact with the disease.

AIDS is a rapidly growing disease. It's spreading like branches on a tree. There is no known way to stop the disease, only ways to slow its occurance. Public information is one way. The people must be aware of the many ways to help prevent this terrible disease and the precautions they can take. Hopefully there will be a cure for this crippling epidemic within the next ten years. All we can do now is hope, and help those affected by it. -Time, Newsweek

27th Rejkjavik

Early Sunday evening Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev emerged from Hofdi House, a snug white mansion overlooking Reykjavik Bay. They had just concluded nearly four hours of unscheduled, stop-the-clock negotiations, but there were no thumbs up. The two leaders exchanged a few unsmiling words beside Reagan's limousine. They clasped hands briefly. The president shook his head and looked away from Gorbachev, disappointment written on his face. Reagan settled into his car and was driven away. Gorbachev waved solemnly and watched him go.

And so the impromptu Iceland summit ended in a frustrating stalemate. As both sides told it, the "preparatory" summit meeting very nearly produced an across-the-board agreement on arms control. However, both sides refused to budge on Star Wars. The result: a blow to superpower relations and no date for a new summit. - Newsweek.

17th Washington

Unknown to most Americans until now, some individuals and government officials acting on behalf of the U.S. government had previously arrainged with Iran an exchange of $60 million worth of weapons for the release of Americans kidnapped in Lebanon. Among allegations circulating in Washington are that the funds from the arms sale were diverted to support the Nicaraguan rebels and that possibly the whole affair was carried out with the implied approval of President Reagan.

Just exactly what the roll of the President and other high level officials was in this affair remains to be seen. In any event these allegations are likely to be only the beginning of a lengthy investigation. - Newsweek.

28th Hyannis

The unpredictable magic of the Barnstable-Falmouth rivalry rubbed off on the field yesterday. As a result, the Selectman's Trophy returned to Falmouth after a seven year absence.

Senior Daryl Frye, all 5-foot-7, 160 pounds of him, broke free for touchdown runs of 83 and 20 yards to spark Falmouth to a rugged 16-9 victory over Barnstable in the 98th renewal of the Thanksgiving rivalry.

The win was a major step for the first year Clipper coach Ed Winslow in his attempt to rebuild Falmouth's sagging football fortunes. The Clippers end the season with a 3-6-1 record, 2-2 in the SMC East.

"We played well, we executed and we made few mistakes," said Falmouth coach Ed Winslow. "Our front line blocked very well."

Frye electrified the 6,500 sun-drenched spectators at Leo Shields Memorial Field when he broke free on a pitch to the right side and sprinted 83 yards for a TD on the game's first play from scrimage.

That sent Falmouth into a quick 7-0 lead, and on it's way to a 46-43-9 series lead.

The Raiders drove right back after Frye's run, moving from its 38 to the Falmouth 1 in four plays.

Then a mishandled handoff, a bad pitch out and an incomplete pass later, Barnstable kicked a 22-yard field goal to cut the lead to 7-3 with only three minutes played.

After Barnstable's score, Falmouth went on a 76-yard, 13-play drive that lasted seven minutes and five seconds. The impressive march concluded with Frye's second touchdown 11 seconds into the second quarter.

Outside of Frye's TD, the biggest play in the march was a third-and-5 screen pass from quarterback Mark Rozum to Sean Casey, who turned what looked like a yardage loser into a 10-yard pickup and a first down at the Raiders' 24.

On third and 9 at the 23, Frye took a pitchout around the right side, cut back up the middle and roared into the end-zone. Jim Bagg missed his extra point try, but Falmouth's 13-3 lead defnitely quieted the Barnstable fans.

Falmouth's Jason Colbert recovered a Barnstable fumble at the Raider 45, and on the next series Falmouth drove to the 6, but fullback Jordan Geist was stuffed on third and fourth down-and-1 plunges.

After a Barnstable 3rd quarter score and missed extra point attempt, Falmouth's Marc Warner returned Dan Connoly's kickoff to the Barnstable 34. Falmouth moved to the 5 before the Raider's defense stiffened and the Clipper's settled for a 22-yard field goal from Bagg and a 16-9 lead.

That would be the end of the scoring, as Barnstable's fourth quarter hopes died in an avalanche of dropped passes and a stubborn Clipper defense.

"Our defense played very well in the second half," said Winslow, we just couldn't put it in the end zone."

Because of his clubs defense and the first-half work of Frye, Winslow needn't have worried. When the final gun sounded, Falmouth owned the turf. - Russ Charpentier, Cape Cod Times

February 1st F.H.S.

This school year 1986-87 can always be remembered as a year dealing with the problems of drug abuse, in school, locally, and nationally. All FHS students can remember answering a barrage of questions like, "do you take cocaine or use alcohol and marijuana?", on the survey issued by Falmouth Drug And Alcohol Task Force. The results of this poll showed only too obviously that some students do have a problem with drugs.

Then, late in October there was the shocking news of Ted McGuire. News of the 1985 graduate of FHS dying of alcohol poisoning in his Yale dorm room was hard to accept. Mrs. McGuire, however, withstood the great loss and became a great force in the community, with a clear message that, "alcohol is a drug that can kill," in hopes of preventing more mistakes because of naivety. Mrs. McGuire said that the prevention of further deaths from alcohol poisoning has to be a community effort. "The parents, teachers, community members, and student leaders all have to become involved. In particular, the alcohol problem is more common with boys. Boys do a lot of binge drinking, while paricipating in dangerous drinking games," she said.

Mrs. McGuire spoke to FHS faculty members about the need for teachers to become more involved in the crusade against alcohol abuse among students. "I have a message to get across, and I'm doing it for Ted," said Mrs. McGuire. Jill Goslee wrote an article for the student newspaper about the important points Mrs. McGuire gave when talking to the teachers. She said that she had seen literature that students receive in health class, and it does not stress the dangers of "binge drinking." It does warn of mixing alcohol with drugs or driving but says little concerning the problem of chugging alcohol alone. Mrs. McGuire stated that in her opinion the student leaders are the kids who are the most vulnerable to drinking too much alcohol. She said that these kids are under great stress to perform well, whether on tests or in sports. In her remarks to the teachers, Mrs. McGuire asked, "How can we make alcohol seem uncool to students?" and answered, "We have to reach the real leaders - our student athaletes to make this happen. My husband and I are committed to saving other lives. We are doing it for Ted and we are asking for your help."

A Drug and Alcohol Program was held for the FHS winter athletes where once again Mr. and Mrs. McGuire spoke along with Falmouth Police Chief Paulino Rodriques. "I'm the last person you want to run into," Chief Rodriques told the athletes. "You kids have to realize, however, that everyone is here to help you. You students," he continued, "do not have any right to alcoholic beverages, period. And I'm going to try as hard as I can to prevent you from buying alcohol."

Even in sociology the problems of alcoholism were addressed by guest speaker Jack Demello, the newely elected Barnstable County Sherriff. When speaking to Mrs. Courtney's class he said that all alcoholics are sick because alcoholism is a disease, "but it is the sober alcoholic who must realize and face his or her problem with alcohol." Mr. Demello said that alcoholism is a progressive disease, this means that as an alcoholic gets older, the problem worsens. He encouraged students to go into an alcoholism clinic if they or someone they know has a drug or alcohol problem. "Guilt energizes; shame paralysis," he said, urging students to take action to help an alcoholic. Mrs. Courtney took an in-class survey on the number of students who drink alcohol. Only five out of twenty-two (less than 23%) students said that they do not drink. According to the survey, almost all of the students who drink on weekends do not drink on week days. The variety and amount of alcohol consumed ranges from a six-pack of beer or a four-pack of wine coolers to a pint of Jack Daniels whiskey or three-quarters of a bottle of vodka.

In the school newspaper, The Student Intelligencer, there was an average of almost an article a week on the subject of drugs, ranging from "Alternatives Needed For Weekend Activities" to "As Abuse Problem Becomes Clearer, Preventative Measures Increase." The first article mentioned, dealt with why teenagers reverted to alcohol for "weekend fun". "Is it because there are not many alternatives, or are we just not looking?" In the article, writer Lorrie Coronella discusses, "What else is there to do? Most of us are tired of the movies scene weekend after weekend. This is not only a great concern of parents, faculty and coaches, but also a concern of many students. It is true that we need alternatives for weekend activity, but the community can not do it alone. Not only is the help of kids needed to create the new activities, but their effort to participate in them is needed as well. Along with a new athletic season comes the responsibility of athletes to their teams to refrain from alcohol use. Weekend parties do not aid in this commitment. Each year the problem of alcohol use increases among youth. Kids have to realize that the consumption of alcohol is not required. I hope that, with the recent death of Ted McGuire, kids have reconsidered their definition of a "good time". I realize the voices of kids often go unheard, but the faculty is with us in the effort to create alternatives for weekend activities."

In an article in Septembers Time Magazine The topic is the problem of drug abuse on a national level. It reveals drug abuse as the worst problem in the nation and calls it "The Enemy Within; A nation wrestles with the dark recesses of it's soul." Other wordly pictures on TV: policemen stand before a table displaying sacks of white powder. A teenage mother sits with the back of her head to the camera and discusses her heroin addiction and vows to lick this scourge. A gray figure sulks in an alley and holds an odd contraption to his mouth. The voice-over cites statistics on the use of something called "crack", speaks of billions spent this year alone on illegal drugs, of the alarming rise of this, the terrifying appearance of that. Green fields in Columbia. Bolivia. John Belushi. Len Bias.

Not the world of Ozzie and Harriet but the world alongside it. A small world within a world where the population looks either sinister or dead, and the language is jazz or chemistry. "Set me straight, man" "Got any splim? red? strawberry? I got the rams man. Don't give me no rooster brand." Officials warn of fentenyl and phenyllalkylamines. It is all arcane. It and dreams, freedom and addiction. The drug addict holds a peculiar place in society, not unlike the AIDS victim; the impulse to shun collides with the impulse to embrace. If the addict happens to be your collegue or your daughter, the confusion doubles; there are no impoverished minorities to pity or blame. For thousands of years, people have smoked, snorted, injected their way between paradise and self-murder, while the outer world has watched, scolded, legislated, not legislated, with barely the slightest comprehension of the act. And how can this be happening in America? Designating drugs crisis now, the nation tears its hair in public, calls out the Air Force, the border patrols, the Republicans, the Demecrats. "War!" cries the city mayors. Is it that drugs are the enemy in which all other national enemies may be incorporated: sneak attacks by foreign powers, illegal immigration, poverty, violence, street crime, the lassitude of youth, unemployment, materialism, irresponsibility- the work place? If that's the case, then drugs may be confused with any of these enemies. The war that is being called for is a civil war, to be fought in the school yard or kitchen, in which the casulties may range from a thug in Miami to the dearest of civil liberties; a wild war in the house. Yet the war is urgent and necessary. Suddenly the whole system feels poisoned by a world in which millions of one's countrymen eagerly dream themselves to death."

Drug and alcohol abuse, it's effects and awareness has certainly been a major issue of our lives this senior year. Hopefully, every member of the Class of 1987 will survive, be successful and twenty years from now thumb through this yearbook and remember the way it was.- Compiled From The Student Intelligencer and from Time Magazine.

"Dedication"

We would like to dedicate our yearbook to a special person who has helped the class of 1987 to bond together in common goals, to find success and to share friendship. This dedication is to Mrs. Terri Medeiros, our loyal adviser. We have been touched by her guidance and concern in all of our endeavors and by the time and effort she has invested in our class.

Four years ago we came to the high school, unsure in our new environment. At the same time, Mrs. Medeiros experienced a similar transition in her first year teaching at the high school. She adopted our class and we grew close through our situation.

In this relationship with Mrs. Medeiros we have found her to possess many admirable qualities such as her good nature and humor. Who could forget when she dressed up as an oversized strawberry for the freshmen class show? Mrs. Medeiros went beyond the title of adviser to become something more important to us; whenever we lacked spirit she was there to encourage us and to inspire us with her own enthusiasm, or to smile with us or to just listen. And of course she was always around to give us the latest . . . 'news'.

However we know Mrs. Medeiros and whatever we remember about her, one constant will be her warm feelings toward the class of 1987— and ours toward her. As we leave FHS behind we will hold these days and remember these times we have spent together with Mrs. Medeiros, our adviser, our "foster mother" and special friend. Thank you.

Love, the class of 1987

A FAREWELL MESSAGE FROM DR. CLARK

F.H.S. Principal Since 1973

I leave my position as Principal after 15 years with mixed emotions. Much about Falmouth High School provides me with great satisfaction; but challenges remain and I would enjoy staying to meet those.

One of the greatest sources of satisfaction is that our school has managed to allow students and faculty with very different points of view to co-exist in a productive environment. More remains to be done to honor the differences, but the environment of the high school has been a relatively harmonious place in which curriculum and student-faculy relationships exist to support quite different goals and purposes.

The second major source of satisfaction has been the evolution of the school from the turmoil of its opening through a period of stabilization to a time in which the community trusts that the school is working for the best interests of the vast majority of the students. Falmouth High School was constructed with some grand and idealistic notions of how secondary education might operate in Falmouth. It appeared a very exciting enterprise to me when I was interviewed for the principalship.

The methods and procedures of the school changed considerably in the first five or six years toward a more traditional and realistic form desired by the majority. My years have been rewarding, although the grand design was not fulfilled, because the transition was successfully made to meet the needs of the community and the faculty.

Running the school during these times has been a balancing act both because of the transition and because of the diversity. Sometimes, it has felt graceful and precise, like a talented high wire artist gliding smoothly above the crowd. But often, the excitiement has been more akin to performing on that tightrope set amidst a scrambling throng, some reaching out to shake it, others leaping to grab the balancing pole, and still others doing battle with the distractors. Among the vying interests have been pressures from those urging time on task in classrooms versus eager advisors and coaches committed to their activities or assemblies; from those discontented with what were perceived to be falling standards versus those anxious to make education personally positive for students; from builders of school cohesiveness and conformity versus the preservers of difference; from those seeking the rewards of simplicity and consistency in discipline versus those desiring to recognize individual circumstances.

The greatest joys of running the school were finding the solutions in which such differing points of view were both satisfied. Problems were solved in that way when people talked with each other and listened to each other, developing ideas that respected the needs of each side. A special reward of the job as principal has been working with parents and students of Falmouth and Mashpee to reach these understandings and to find these solutions.

One special program that has make me proud of the school and the community has been Volunteers In Public Schools (VIPS). Talented people from the community have come into the school to make it a better place; they have found it an enjoyable environment to be in because students and teachers have appreciated the efforts of the volunteers. Equally important, students from the high school are beginning to move out into the community. Some are doing so to increase learning opportunities for themselves, and some are contributing as volunteers to meet the needs of people with whom they work. Other students are contributing time within the high school as volunteers. A challenge still remains to broaden these efforts and expand the joys both of learning from community people in the school and of encouraging high school students to serve each other and the community.

As I have been thinking about what to write, I have been viewing with great interest and great concern testimony of Lt. Colonel Oliver North. He is being popularly acclaimed for his singleness of purpose, his steadfastness in the face of criticism, and his earnestness. He has frequently proclaimed his unquestioning obedience in the pursuit of strategies, and he has justified numerous actions out of loyalty and concern for the well-being of colleagues.

But Oliver North is a man who has brought the military system into a democratic government. In a democracy, no matter how important or justified the ends may appear, the means must also be acceptable. In a democratic system, unlike the military, a subordinate can and should question the logic and legitimacy of the wishes of a superior. A democracy is not an efficient, precise, unswerving proecess, as Lt. Colonel North seems to wish it to be. Democracies are complex and time consuming, often clumsy and inefficient.

Schools should be democratic in spirit. They should foster questioning and encourage debate; they should hear all points of view. They should instill the importance of a military system and yet define carefully the limits of its role.

Two dangers require watchfullness. The pursuit of excellence must not create undue competitive pressure; learning for the sake of beating someone else is not as valid as learning for its own benefit. Also, the pressures for efficiency, consistency, and conformity must not be allowed to overwhelm the acceptance of difference and the time and energy to adapt to differences.

I wish Falmouth High School well in confronting this messy, clumsy, ultimately human, democratic task.

Coastal Classic

The Falmouth High School car show has ended but the unforgettable experiences will be with a couple of thousand people through their entire lives. The show originally began as a major project for the Graphic Arts Show, in June 1974 and that was how Mr. von Hentschel became interested in the show. "I was teaching the Graphic Arts and I saw it as a realistic experience for my students." Today Mr. von Hentschel is teaching the Power Shop at the Falmouth High School. As a rule, there are about sixty to seventy students who help with the car show. Some of them have helped in the past shows while others have just begun working.

Preparation for the show takes about six or seven weeks of hard work by students from four different areas of the school. The Graphic Art students design and print every piece of material necessary for the show. Some of the jobs they must do are printing the tickets, T-shirts and applications for the car owners. The Power Shop students must manage the show. They do that by selling the tickets, maintaining security, arranging the cars, and setting up a clean-up committee. The students from that class must also build platforms for the cars that will be selected. The Home Ec. students make and sell food at the car show. This year SADD, the sponsor of the show, made a strong and sensible and strong point, "Don't drink and drive!"

Besides having all the help of all the F.H.S. classes, there was help from the radio station WKPE which did a wonderful job at advertising for the 1986 show. According to Mr. von Hentschel the students were one of the main reasons for the success of the car show. In his opinion there probably would not be a show without all the help and time which students contribute.

The show has been an annual event at FHS. Students and car owners stay up to midnight on Friday setting up for the spectacular show. The "showing off" of the vehicles ususlly takes place on the third weekend of October, on Saturday from 12:00 P.M. to 11:00 P.M. and also on Sunday from 12:00 P.M. to 5:00 P.M. This is a early beginning for automobile fans to look at and compare their fine instruments. When Mr. von Hentschel was asked why the show was one of the earliest shows in the season, his answer was, "Because the show is smaller than other shows, the competiton would be too great to have to compete with other major car shows through out Boston, Providence, and other cities." The shows are all alike in quality, having awesome cars, and captivate thousands of young and old people who admire and dream of having as fine a vehicle as those on display.

The cars are selected by the students of the Power Shop and by Mr. von Hentschel who said, "When I see a well-kept car that is also unusual, I ask them to contribute the vehicle to the show. The show has gotten a good reputation, very relaxed and friendly - not as competitive as some others. People don't want the same cars over and over again. They want to see new ones, that makes it more interesting for the owners and the spectators." There are about sixty vechicles on the gym floor, and there is a waiting list of around eighteen cars. The owners are asked to donate their cars for the two days and usually do. Not only do the viewers get a lot out of it, but the owners build up a great reputation which helps them in future shows.

The cars are judged by the spectators during the two days of the show and awards are given out. There are different awards for different classes. Some awards are The Best Modern Car or The Best Oldest Car, etc. The prizes are donated to F.H.S. from local businesses. Hopefully next year's show will have awards made by the students at the school who are in wood shop class.

The show has gone through a number of changes over the years. It began in June 1974, and went up hill from then on. The name was even changed from "ON the MOVE" to "COASTAL CLASSIC". In 1975 there was no show at all, because of problems with the Field House floor. Then again in 1982-1983 the students had problems. The students bravely tried to run the show by themselves while Mr. von Hentschel took a years leave of absence to try life in Maryland. Meanwhile the show went on, but not nearly as successfully compared to the ones in the past. When I asked Mr. von Hentschel what happened he said that, "You have to know who to get in touch with to get a variety of cars, so the show will interest people." Because of that failure the next year there was no car show. "Basically I wanted to see if the show would be missed and to have a fresh start," answered Mr. von Hentschel. The show finally earned a new reputation and a new name which helped make the 1986 show the best of them yet.

The Coastal Classic has a very bright future ahead of it. In the next show there will hopefully be magazine coverage, and of course the same success it had this year. There would be no show without the hours of hard work and planning that the students and teachers put in. The High School can thank those students and teachers who have helped with the show. Because of all the time and energy they put in, the show is a success. Those people who have been involved with the show learned from the few mistakes that were made and which hopefully won't be made again. The talented seniors who worked in planning the show may want to think of a career that involves the same work, while the lower classmen will continue to be interested in the show. Good luck to the Coastal Classic car show and may the show be as well organized and popular again next year.

Staff Testimony Alleges CIA Involvement In F.H.S. Yearbook

THE INCENDIARY NEWS SERVICE

FALMOUTH, Cape Cod - At a hastily organized press conference today, members of the 1987 F.H.S. yearbook staff disavowed any responsibility for misspellingsm, name mix-ups and similar mistakes in the '87 yearbook, claiming that ulitmately, all decisions were make by a CIA controlled computer.

Speaking out for the first time today, yearbook advisor Jim Wight-Waltman insisted that the computer had been installed, over his objections, by government agents who issued threats against his staff members if he refused to co-operate. Claiming that national security was at risk, the agents, who were identified only as covert operatives, or cover-ops, insisted that all names and other written material be fed directly into their computer for final screening before the yearbook was sent to press. Wight-Waltman said he was told by the agents that the computer would identify radicals, subversives, commie sympathizers and shoplifters.

The computer, a model 747SX ELECTROLOX, was originally built in 1958. It was the result of a then top secret project at Oak Ridge Labs in Tennessee where the Departments of Agriculture and Defense combined forces in an effort to rid the south of the boll weevil by broadcasting MUZAK at ultra-high frequencies. The project was abandoned in 1962, after 6 years and $173 million, when it was discovered that boll weevils did not have ears.

"My staff did the best they could . . . and I'm proud of them."

At that time the computer was to have been dismantled and placed in storage. However, the records of its whereabouts since '62 are said to be missing from government files and sources in the GAO indicate that it may have been in the hands of the CIA since the unsuccessful Bay of Pigs invasion.

Said advisor Wight-Waltman, "My staff did the best they could under the circumstances and I'm proud of all of them. They checked and double checked everything they could - but we're afraid that once the government got control of our information there's no telling what may have happened. We just hope the students understand that we gave it our best effort" . . . "and believe me, it didn't make our job any easier with the CIA looking over our shoulder constantly."

In his remarks, Wight-Waltman went on to thank the yearbook staff members and commended several of them for their ability to perform under pressure. Among those he listed were; Tara Callahan - Senior section, Ali Burk and Holly Dottridge - Underclassmen, Kelli Dottridge - Sports, Darryl Anderson - Faculty, Jen Bishop - Clubs, Mike Marini - Photography, and Julie Meisner - Copy Prep & Data Entry.

"Furthermore", he went on, "the following people played key roles in helping us meet certain deadlines and I sincerely appreciated their help. They were; Todd Ballard, Becky Colbath, Lorri Coronella, Benton Dorman, Jen Edmond, Michelle Evans, Chris Goulet, Dan Horton, Lisa Molloy, Todd Olivera, and especially Darryl Anderson and Mike Marini. Additional help was provided by Aletha Bird, David Anderson, John Carroll, Laura Kilday and Laura Luyten. If there is anyone who I should have mentioned but have not, I hope they will accept my apology and thanks."

Promising to not rest until there was a thorough investigation of the whole sordid affair, Wight-Waltman ended his prepared statement by announcing that the yearbook would be recieving an Apple computer of its own as a gift from the class of '87. He thanked them and claimed that with this new system the yearbook would be able to prevent CIA intrusion, avert hostile takeovers by groups such as the right wing Intelligencer and Clipper Log, eradicate boll weevils and possibly even produce a better yearbook.

Questioned afterwards by reporters, Wight-Waltman asserted that there was no truth to the rumors that his wife and son threatened to leave him if the yearbook isn't finished next year before school is out!

Girls Soccer Season

The girls intramural soccer team has made "a great improvement from last year" according to Coach Greg Gilbert.

This years record of 4-3-3 compares favorably with the 0-5 record of last year.

The team's twelve games this year were played against various schools on the Cape, with the exception of an away game at New Bedford High School.

Coach Gilbert said the New Bedford team "was lucky they came out with a tie" because, he said many shots were made on their goal, "but they had a great goalkeeper."

He also said that it was uplifting to come back this season with a 5-0 victory over Harwich after losing twice last year.

"One rewarding aspect to our winning season was the fact that 32 girls played in every game," Coach Gilbert said. There were 48 girls who played interscholastic soccer; 12 were seniors. Serving as captains for the team were seniors Ellen Dunn, Jill Collins, Kara Marshall, Christine Goulet, Pandora Davis, Julie Cherau, Laura Phillips and Caryn Bertozzi. These players were chosen because of their commitment to the team.

Coach Gilbert said he is "really going to miss the seniors; we're losing a lot of good players."

However he said he anticipates the underclassmen to rise. Next year he said he expects strong leadership from seniors Kim Basey, Lisa Strock, Jackie Mulhern, Melissa Reed and Klee Moyer. He also expects "good play" from juniors Colleen O'Leary, Tabitha Collins, Amy Connell, Veronica MacDonald and sophomore keeper Sheri Raymond.

Football

"All the players were great because of their unity, sportsmanship and enthusiasm," reported Coach Gilbert.

The team finished the season with a win over the boys team in their annual game. The game was followed by a potluck supper.

Overall the girls said they played their best while having fun at the same time.

If you look at the record of the 1986 Falmouth High School fooball team, you might think it was a disappointing season. Their record of 3-6-1, may not have been very good, but they beat Barnstable, the main objective of every season. While the record wasn't up to par of a Coach Winslow's Somerset team, (he was in two superbowls while in Somerset) Dr. Antonucci put it best, "Mr. Winslow will not be looked at upon wins or losses, but whether or not he beats Barnstable."

Some key contributors of in the season were, among others, tri-captains Russ Grinnell, Marc Parsons and Jordan Geist. Russ Grinnell was a two-way starter until he suffered a knee injury in practice the week after the Bishop Stang game. Marc Parsons, the most stable force in the line, started at offensive tackle for the whole season and defensive tackle for about the first four games. Jordan Geist was the starting full-back and part-time starter at linebacker. His performance at linebacker earned him an All Conference All-Star position, he also was named the team's most valuable player.

The other seniors who contributed were: Sean Casey, Pat Harrington, Paul Andrews, Bob Ingalls, Jim Curtain and Thanksgiving Day MVP Daryl Frye, who gained over 100 yards.

The team should be very optimistic about next season, based on the performance of the juniors members of the squad. If the Clippers beat Barnstable, everyone in Falmouth would consider it a sucessful year. Falmouth went out really pumped up and scored on it's first play from scrimmage

(continued from page 111) on a 83 yard run by Daryl Frye. Frye was the hero all day, running for over 100 yards, scoring two touchdowns and gaining the Thanksgiving Day MVP award. Jim Bagg also kicked a field goal for Falmouth as they defeated Barnstable 16-9.

The Clippers ended their season with a 3-6-1 record. Falmouth players and fans alike, will not soon forget the 16-9 win on November 27, 1986, especially after a seven year drought against their dreaded arch rival.

FIELD HOCKEY

Falmouth's Division I field hockey team, coached for the second consecutive year by Mrs. Denise Dorado, finished their 1986 season with an overall record of 7 wins, 6 losses and 5 ties. Assistant coaches were Mrs. Debra Dagwan, and Ms. Wendy Rubin.

Tri-captains were Lori Cranshaw, Michelle DeMello and Amy Ferreira. Amy was also the team's leading scorer with seven goals. Senior, Jen Jensen scored six goals and junior Traci Sangster made the most assists of the season with six.

Mrs. Dorado said that the team had some trouble offensively this year, but they had a very strong defense.

Stellar goal tending by Lucy Mograss was a key factor to the team's defense. She boasted an 88% goal-saving average, and was chosen MVP of the team along with Tracy Pratt, a junior half-back.

Season highlights were the highly competitive games against Dartmouth and Bishop Stang. These teams were both ranked above Falmouth and were playoff material. Each time Falmouth played these teams they got more shots on goal and improved greatly.

Dartmouth was the last game of the season. Their first encounter of the season resulted in a loss for the Clippers, but the second game could have gone either way. The 1-0 loss occured as the result of a freak play when Falmouth's defense deflected a shot into their own goal for the game's only score.

Falmouth tied Bishop Stang at home in their first meeting, but their second match, one of the most exciting of the season, ended in a disappointing 3-2 defeat after Falmouth rallied to tie the score after being

The Attleboro game on Oct. 18 was a very important one. If Falmouth had won they would've had a chance for the playoffs. Unfortunately the game ended in a 1-1 deadlock. There were 18 shots on goal by Falmouth and all but one were turned back by Attleboros male goalie.

Among the many awards recieved by FHS players were; SMC Division I All-Star, Tracy Pratt; TV 58 Cape and Islands All-Stars, Tracy Pratt and Lucy Mograss; and, First Team All Cape and Islands All-Stars, Tracy Pratt and Lucy Mograss, Second Team, Lori Cranshaw; and Honorable Mentions, Michelle DeMello, Jen Jensen and Traci Sangster.

VOLLEYBALL

The 1986 Edition of the F.H.S. volleyball team showed marked improvement over the previous teams. This years team recorded the most wins in a season in the four year history of the sport.

Improvements were made at the individual, as well as team level. As individual skills improved, and the girls gained more game experience, the overall performance of the team improved. This year's team, under the leadership of Captain Trish Cram were hard working, enthusiastic, and competitive.

The varsity record stood at 6 wins-12 losses, while the J.V.'s finished up with an impressive 9-9 record.

Team awards given at the end of the season included: Amy Luiliano-MVP, Christine McCormick-Most Improved, and Trish Cram recieved the coach's award. On Junior Varsity the MVP was Michele Evans, Most Improved-Jeanne Toldness and Laura McWhinnie got the coach's award.

Falmouth's performances carried them to the top as they earned their seventh consecutive State Class title and were runners-up in the All-State Meet. Falmouth was edged out by Cambridge Ringe and Latin.

Because of a football injury last year, Russ did all his throwing in a soft cast. Jason Leaf set a new FHS freshman record for the ½ mile run with 2 min., 5.3 sec.. ## Girls Winter Track

The girls' winter track team had a very successful season as it captured the SMC title for the second consecutive year. The team was undefeated in its league with an overall record of 8-0 and placed third in the Class A Indoor State Championships.

At the most important meet of the season, the State Class Meet at Harvard University, "The runners did what they had to do there and turned in some extremely strong performances," said Coach John Carroll. The small F.H.S. contingent managed to finish third overall with a team total of 34 points, just a few behind winner Woburn and runner-up Lexington. Sophomore Heidi Hullum ran well as she finished second in the 600. She was followed by teammate Lorrie Coronella, who finished fifth in the same race. In the Shot Put, Sophomore Veronica McDonald placed a surprising third and Jacquie Mulhern was fifth. Monique Spivey had a good race as she took third place in the 1,000 yard run. Senior Heather McLaughlin captured a fifth place in the mile and was another good race for the Falmouth distance crew. The last event of the meet gave the team its final points. The mile relay team of Hullum, Spivey, Coronella and Pam Cherkovsky lead most of the way, but unable to hold off a strong Woburn team, finished second. Overall Coach Carroll was very pleased with the performance of his team in the State Meet. "We might have placed higher if some of our runners believed that we could do this well on the State level. I think this will be a good example for next year."

Earlier in the season, the younger runners had a chance to shine at the Red Auerbach Freshmen/Sophomore Meet. Veronica McDonald set a meet record in the Shot Put to win with a toss of 33'1 ½". Heidi Hullum won the 600 yard run and was the lead-off runner on the sixth place mile relay team. Heidi Baumann, Erin Cullinane and McDonald ran the other legs of the relay.

Boys Track

First Row (l. to r.); Lauri Cranshaw, Karen Clark, Carrie Kokmeyer, Jen Kohyler, Tracy Pratt, Beth McDermott, Wladen, Second Row; Janine Johnson, Laura Phillips, Sandy Ness, Andrea Harding, Sue Catrona, Christine Nelson, Jen Chance, Janet Clark, Krissy Cranshaw, Liz Bertozzi, Liz McLeash, Third Row; Tara Smith, Chelia Ferraria, Melissa Walden, Funfar, Dora Blane, Robin Ayres, Cecily Lough, Janet Moller, Lynne Stone, Marah Stets.

The girls team had five members selected to the winter track S.M.C. All-Star team. Those selected were senior Lorrie Coronella in the 300, sophomore Heidi Hullum in the 600, senior Heather McLaughlin for all-around distance runner, junior Jacquie Mulhern as the all-around field event person. Hullum, Spivey, Coronella, and sophomore Heidi Baumann were selected in the 4 x 400 relay.

SOFTBALL

The Varsity Softball team finished the season with an overall record of 8-10, 6-4 in the SMC II Division. This was a re-building year in Girls' Softball, since only 5 girls returned from last years team of 15 players. It was a young team consisting of 5 seniors, 5 juniors, and 4 sophomores, but there were many close and exciting games.

Pitcher Trish Cram struck out 84 in 17 games. She ended the season with a 2.15 ERA, and a .339 batting average. Third baseman Janice Irving ended the season with a .297 batting average and had 17 RBI. Catcher Amy Guiliano led the team with a .530 batting average and 17 RBI. She was one of the most valuable defensive players on the team.

In the future, expect to see strong performances from juniors Amy Guiliano, Cathy McGowan, Amy Salthouse, Leslie Horne, and Pitcher Jen Barstow. In addition, sophomores Dawn Handlin, Erica Twiss, Laura MacWhinnie, and Michelle Evans will become dependable regulars.

The highlight of the season was the game against Barnstable which Falmouth had to win in order to reach the tournament. Falmouth had people on base every inning, but just couldn't move them around. The score was tied 0-0 going into the top of the 4th inning, when a Falmouth throwing error allowed the winning run to score. The game ended with Barnstable on top 1-0. Coach Dorado said "That it was the best game they played all season."

Girls Track

First Row (Sitting l. to r.)-Lori Coronella, Sarah Clifford, Heidi Hobson, Heather McLaughlin, Pam Cherkofsky, Linda Cronin. Second Row (kneeling l. to r.)-Monique Spivey, Jenn Johnson, Jennifer Jensen, Sue James, Carolyn Mauk, Jennifer Bowman, Lori Geisheker, Third Row (l. to r.)-Mr. John Carroll, Molly Ames, Yuki Honjo, Caroline Antonangelli, Heidi Hullum, Erin Cullinane, Ann Capra, Veronica McDonald, Rachel Lacerda, Mrs. Cullinane.

The SMC Division II All-Star team is picked by all the coaches in the league. This year captains Trish Cram and Amy Guiliano were selected. Additionally, they were selected to play on a softball team which will tour Germany during the summer of 1987.

At the annual banquet, Coach Dorado gave MVP awards to Trish Cram and Amy Guiliano. Most Improved Player went to sophomore Michelle Evans.

The outlook for the future is bright with 9 starting lettermen returning next year. Dedication, enthusiasism and a talented coach, will be the key to this team's future success.

Girls Spring Track

The girls' Spring track team finished the dual meet season with a record of 3-3. Although this seasons record was not as successful as in past years, the runners performed very well in individual events in the dual meets and in the major meets around the state.

The team finished a surprising (to them) third in the outdoor State Class A Championships, recording some great performances.

The girls' team had four members selected to the S.M.C. All-Star team. Those selected were senior Heather McLaughlin as the league's best all-around distance runner, senior Lorrie Coronella for the 400 meters, junior Jen Bowman for the 300 meter hurdles, and sophomore Heidi Hullum as the all-around sprinter.

According to Coach Carroll, "The co-captains of the spring team, Heidi Hobson and Pam Cherkofsky, along with winter co-captains, Hobson and Lorrie Coronella, did a good job this year. They showed leadership by their serious attitude toward their running. They performed up to the limits of their abilities, and sometimes beyond. If they were not involved they would encourage their teammates in other ways."

THE INTRUDER

He goes inside looking,
Looking for the past,
Throughout the land so vast;
He messes up the future,
Disturbing the past's course,
Digging up the past,
Digging up the Great King
Tut's corpse;
He does it for the gold
He does it out of need,
He destroys the past,
Because of his own greed.
Now when he dies,
He'll be famous for his find,
But down in hell he'll burn,
For disturbing past mankind.

ONLY A DREAM

All you ever hoped for
All that you believed.
In one very solemn moment
Had all become a dream.
A dream you held so close
Each day seemed as a year.
And now it is torn from you
The scattered memories you fear.
Afraid to start again
And mend a broken heart.
Afraid all love is gone
Lost and torn apart.
Living a fairytail
Of kings and queens.
Makes the heart grow frail
To find only a dream.

DREAMS

Dedicated to the Class of '87

Visions of our favorite pasts and hopeful tomorrows.
A part of us that no one can ever take away from us.
The one thing we all hang on to.
Hope will always last and carry us through the long and almost endless hard times,
to the strong and promising tomorrows.

voices in a long corridor
lost, never to be found.
Irrevocable; forever

darkness in a round room

Unchanged; remembering joyful laughter-

Cordless, yet boxed

DRIFTING AWAY

I guess I don't know what love is, because I don't think love should feel like this.

I feel so confused my emotions amiss, we fight over nothing and make up with a kiss.

My love for you is like the sea, it changes each day, one day I'm happy and the next I'm astray, but the tide is turning and I'm drifting away.

I can't look into your eyes and tell you I still care, because feelings like that are ever so rare.

If love is like this and poison a kiss, then I don't know that I'll miss the feeling we share.

I've lost respect for the person I am because loving you meant giving up my life and sacrifices like that are made on the edge of a knife.

I'm sorry it came down to this, I can't even kiss you goodbye because your kisses, my love, are the tears which I cry.

"ROBIN"

Robin, Robin, sing to me, high up in an apple tree
you have birdies 1, 2, 3, Robin,
Robin sing to me.
Your fur is like that of a cotton ball and your voice, that beautiful voice is like the smooth whistle of the wind above our heads.
Oh, Robin, Robin you
beautiful thing, Please sing to me again and again.

Frank Travis

Rachel Norstrand. I met her on the Fourth of July in 1986. She wore a 3/4 length dress which slightly bound around her mid-calves with golden shoes, brilliant gold shoes which almost rivaled the golden shimmer of her neck-length hair. She had just turned 17, I would imagine, and her actions were as forceful as a general's, yet as soft and gentle as a priest's. She was a strong-willed person, and still is; she'd let you know if you were being an idiot or a fool, but she wouldn't resent you for it. She wouldn't "beat around the bush" at all.

I remember her now, as I stare out at the stone pillars of grey in front of me, looming out of the city of Philadelphia like geysers in the distance. I don't know what reminded me of her, but I miss her. Her style, grace, and self-confidence gave me the strength all men need to survive; the qualities I can't find in Falmouth or in myself.

I guess that whenever I'm in a city, I'll think of her. It was in Boston we first met.

It has been almost two months since we last said good-bye to each other. I feel that whatever we had, if anything, is gone now; brutally severed by the distance between us. I have often thought to myself that I was stronger than most people, I didn't need affection, my heart long since calloused over. But in the middle of that state of despair, Rachel broke through the armor I had built around myself, and showed the happiness and caring everyone has to have. I thank her for it and am forever indebted to her for, well, for herself.

Do you remember when you sat quietly
there?
Your eyes filled with wonder, fixed in a stare?
The maidens danced round you, you looked very proud,
Your face held a smile as they curtsied and bowed.
Now, as a moment the scene has flashed by,
Your eyes reflect sorrow upon the pillow you cry.
For grown is the little girl who sat quietly there
Lost is the innocence upon thee, despair.

THE "I" POEM

I am
Beaches, kids, vacations
I like running and listening to music
Humor, trust, and truth are important to me
I find satisfaction when I complete a project.
I hate when people only pick out your bad points,
But it could help you to be a better person.
I love my friends
I like to sit on the beach at sundown
I hate to fight.
This is me, I am!

They wait. They talk a little, but there is a competition going on; a cruel, immature, and self-centered competition that has innocent people as its victim.

They snap their attention around to a small, quiet figure meekly, feebly, cautiously raising her hand.

"Yes Jane, do you have something to add?"

Uncertain of how to address the class, Jane begins to open herself up, taking off the armor which she has built around herself in order to express her personal point of view. She pours forth, with a faint voice, one that could almost be called saintly, a profound explanation to the perplexing question at hand. The answer is so simple and innocent, the entire class is caught in dumbfounded silence, their faces contorting with the mental exertion needed to fathom the solution, and the speaker.

No noise emanates from the room for almost a whole minute.

"Oh yes, that's a very good thought, well presented and backed . . . My lord!!, it works! The answer works." The entire gathering of students seem to arrive at the same conclusion at one beautiful, rare, fantastically erudite moment, and the once twisting faces now brighten and shimmer with the joy they feel at arriving at this very complicated deducation.

Then it happens. The most destructive, hideous, contemptible remark OF MANKIND . . . is released with the savagery of a million hounds of hell. A cutdown. The most self-centered, egotistical bit of vomit that could possibly come from (and I use the term loosely) a human-being.

In that horrible, agonizing moment, the entire aura of thinking and the working of human minds is destroyed. Spit out by one of the faces that couldn't possibly use its mind to the extent of its peers, the vision of a gallows and this heathen's dangling body, burns into my head, and the moment is gone forever.

At the risk of not looking 'cool', the entire class tosses away the valuable exercise they have just received, and laughs at this stupid, immature piece of "humor".

The ape who did this inexcusable holocaust of intellectualism regretfully receives congratulations from his immediate tribe members for his victory over learning.

Once again, the joy of learning is slain by the ignorance of the common beast.

How I had once dreamed, always hoping
I never believed that I could do good
Always in the distance
Forever in the past
Never looking at today, as it is Forgetting what was important, at the time
Never realizing what I was doing, then
Using excuses to cover up my lies
Finding reasons not to look at myself
Not ever seeing who I was Wondering if life was always going to be the world of things
I now can look back
To see the person who had Such insecurities and one who never Looked for the goodness in life
Life now can be great
I found the true insight
That makes me smile
That relieves the problems
Which no longer burden me
I am important
For I was given life
And I realize it is not to be taken
For granted
I cherish every moment
Care for what is right for me
Share the importance of life, with others
Responsible for my actions
Happy because I don't care
Happy because I want to be Carefree because I cause myself no
problems
Time now to be myself
And Look to see me
Time now to see others
That I've spent those old times with,
the times
I've outgrown
Time now to realize how I've grown
Time now to relax and enjoy the simple thoughts
I can smile now, from deep inside
Because I have learned that I can be happy and live life the way it is

We were once so happy, so innocent
So playful and so content.
We'd frolic and play all day.
We wouldn't have a care in the world
And letting everything go unfurled.
We didn't have to worry about adult
problems
Or how to solve them.
But eventually,
Things aren't so easy anymore
And the realization of that, hits you to the core.
When you're younger, you think, "I'd like to be an adult very fast."
And when you reach that point,
You find that you're longing for the past
And wanting your childhood days to last.
But that is not so,
For one day, your childhood days are bound to go.
You grow older-we all do.
We experience what some people call,
"Growing pains", and wonder
If all our efforts are in vain.
But they're not.
Eventually, you'll be taught.
Time always teaches.
With time comes experience.
Once you've reached adulthood
though,
It's not so bad.
But it is sad when you look back
And see how growing older
Has made you loose the care free
Innocence that at one time.
All of us had.
But make the best of it.
Look on at your adulthood
As a challenge.
Don't look behind at what you lost.
There are a good many memories
That are happy too.
Just look at the Future ahead of you
Learn from the mistakes you have made
And you'll find,
That in due time,
Your reward will
Be paid.

THE REALITY OF DEATH

Somedays I feel I am on the verge of death, no
pain, no heartache,
no symptoms, just remembering the reality of death. But those are the days that make me realize how happy I am to be alive and how happy
I am to have a friend
like you in my life.

THE HELL DOGS OF SAMOA

Sure they were dogs of hell. They swore and screamed bad things at people who wore funny jars. They all had scaggly hair and chewed tobacco. They certainly were a bunch of wild hell dogs.

Samoa was a happy place, where birds sang and people pranced happily through the streets and fields. Most of the men wore dresses because of the heat.

Dresses were far more cool than wool 'n' burlap pants. With every meal the people of Samoa ate lots of chutney and cabbage. Ducks were praised highly; the hell dogs all had plastic hats in the shape of ducks. They never wore funny jars.

One day, a Badedgar came to Samoa. He wore lots of funny jars and kicked the happy Samoans around; he even set a duck on fire. He sure was a Badedgar. The villagers made signs that said "Edgar= hell." This made the dogs sort of unhappy. For so long they had been out of control, they were sure the villagers appreciated it, but now all of a sudden they were merely dogs of hell while the Badedgar equalled hell. They were hurt and confused, and even a bit bitter.

Down the road they all stormed, determined to get even with this Badedgar, their pretty print dresses shifting in the wind, their duck-handled clubs by their sides. They were clubs that had Badedgar written all over them. The hell dogs screamed like burning cows as they walked on.

Under an expansive oak tree they saw Badedgar. He wore a light blue paisley frock, and a matching bonnet to shade his eyes. He was eating chutney from a can. The hell dogs stalked up to him, with blood-red hatred in their eyes. Badedgar paid no attention. Then suddenly one of them spoke up to his comrades: "Perhaps I seem a bit paradoxical in my earnest assumption, but it seems that our hate is so metaphysical, yea friends, even subtly intrinsic, that our anger seems to be absorbed by the greater part of infinity."

The other hell dogs pondered their friends's wise words, and agreed totally. So they turned around and walked home. When they arrived there, they ate spam-filled pies and were glad.

I am crazy and I like punk music
I wonder when the world will end.
I hear the devil calling me
I see a fire in the distance,
I want to have all the riches in the world
I am crazy and I like punk music.

I pretend I'm dead, an illusion.
I feel the angels pulling me through life.
I touch sharp piece of razor to my wrist.
I worry about the children of the future.
I cry when I think of my boyfriend so far away.
I am crazy and I like punk music.

I understand that my soul is empty
I say whatever you want me to
I dream that someday there'll be no more pain
I try to make it to tomorrow
I hope for no suffering
I am crazy and I like punk music.

THE GOOD LIFE

Layin' on the grass
Lookin' at the sky
Watchin' the wind
Come and go by
The smell of the daisies
The touch of the sun
Makes you feel good inside
Like a good hard run.
You wade in the water
the waves hit your legs
Your mind is wondering
About certain things.
You feel like you're free
And not confined
Be true to yourself
And be clear in your mind.
